A Life Sciences-Specialized Firm

Most translation agencies focus on one language and a variety of topics. Some firms cater to many languages and many topics. As a life sciences specialized firm, however, we are able to recruit and retain top linguistic talent in the areas of medicine, healthcare and pharmaceuticals, guaranteeing that every project and every document is worked on only by professional, expert translators.

Project Management

A translation is only as good as the project manager. Our project management staff understands the importance of seamless, timely delivery of high quality translations, whether in one language or twenty-one languages. Our unique project management structure allows for a high degree of transparency and quality assurance.

A Long Term Partner

We see ourselves as your partner. We strive to cultivate a comprehensive understanding of your mission and your goals, and to consistently implement them in all projects, thus extending value to new markets, languages and cultures.

Consistency in Translation

Language is one of your most valuable assets. Inconsistent translation input and review, however, can diminish the value of translated content. We are committed to developing and maintaining consistency across languages and across projects.
